

CAMOUFLAGE

DESIGNED TO DECEIVE

SOCIAL NARRATIVE

This is the International Spy Museum's special exhibit, CAMOUFLAGE: DESIGNED TO DECEIVE. I will learn about camouflage, where animals, people, and even spies use clever tricks to stay hidden.

Before I enter the exhibit, I will pass two large black and white MURALS. Here I can look for hidden animals. There are 19 in each mural!

This exhibit has a lot of different LIGHTING EFFECTS so I might find it bright in one area and then very dark in another.

This is CAMY THE CHAMELEON. I can look for them in the exhibit to learn more about camouflage.

There are FOUR DIFFERENT SECTIONS of the exhibit:
Disappear, Distort, Disguise, and Deceive.
Above, Camy is showing the different sections.

As I enter the exhibit, I can watch a SHORT FILM introducing the idea of camouflage.

After the video, I will walk into a LARGE SPACE surrounded by four giant video screens. These screens show people blending into different nature scenes.

Off of the large central space are the four different rooms. In the DISAPPEAR exhibit I will learn how people, animals, and things try and hide in plain sight.

In the DISTORT exhibit I will learn how big items try to blend in. One trick includes a technique called “dazzle”!

In the DISGUISE exhibit I will learn how spies try and stay hidden.

In the DECEIVE exhibit I will learn how spies try and blend in where they do not belong.

When I leave, I will exit into a stairwell that is full of windows.
It might be bright so don't be surprised!

This is the SPY STORE. There is a lot to look at here, and it can be loud and crowded. The lights are also bright. I will stay close to my grown-up while I am in here.
