SPONSOR OUR SIGNATURE 2020 FUNDRAISING EVENT

All Sponsorships Matched Dollar for Dollar during our Matching Gift campaign

This popular annual panel and Q&A featuring former female spies goes global this year as we welcome a live online audience of 700+ from around the US and the world to its new virtual format.

Join us for this fascinating, wide-ranging conversation, led by moderator Lori Stokes of WNYW-TV's Good Day New York, with a star-studded panel of women who have had incredible careers in espionage and intelligence. From current affairs and how they navigated the complex world of espionage personally and professionally to advice for young people considering bold careers in today's world, these women will inspire all of us as we steer new courses in a very changed world.

This is a fundraising event. Your sponsorship goes directly to helping the Spy Museum recover from the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic.

About This Year's Panelists

Amy S. Hess: Former FBI Executive Assistant Director (EAD) with first the Science and Technology Branch and later the Criminal, Cyber, Response, and Services Branch. She is the only person in the FBI to have served twice as EAD and is the first woman to hold these specific roles. She is currently Chief of Public Safety for the city of Louisville, Kentucky.

Lieutenant General Mary Legere (USA Ret.): Former Deputy Chief of Staff for Intelligence (G-2) of the United States Army. She previously served as Commander of the 501st Military Intelligence Brigade, Deputy Chief of Staff for Intelligence of the Multi-National Force - Iraq, and Commander of the United States Army Intelligence and Security Command. She is currently with Accenture Federal Services as the managing director for its national and defense intelligence business.

Dr. Jung H. Pak: Former Deputy National Intelligence Officer at the National Intelligence Council in the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (DNI). She was previously a senior analyst with the CIA. She is the author of Becoming Kim Jong Un: A Former CIA Officer's Insights into North Korea's Enigmatic Young Dictator and is currently a senior fellow and the SK-Korea Foundation Chair in Korea Studies at Brookings Institution's Center for East Asia Policy Studies.

Karen M. Schaefer: Former CIA operations officer in Latin America, Europe, Afghanistan, and Iraq. Her headquarters positions included Chief of Operations, Directorate of Science and Technology; Deputy Associate Director of Military Affairs; Deputy Chief of Counterintelligence, Near East Division; Executive Assistant to Deputy Director CIA; and Group Chief, Iran Operations Division. She was also Associate Executive Assistant Director (AEAD) of the National Security Branch, FBI.

Lori Stokes - Moderator: Co-anchor of Good Day New York on WNYW-TV, FOX 5, Lori Stokes began her journalistic career in Illinois as a medical reporter. She worked as a journalist in several major markets on the East Coast including: WBTV in Charlotte, NC; WBFF in Baltimore, MD; and WJLA in Washington, DC, before becoming the first African-American to broadcast on MSNBC. She later co-anchored Eyewitness News This Morning on WABC-TV in New York City. Along the way, Stokes has picked up Emmy and AP Awards as well as a Peabody Award for her reporting. A graduate of Ohio State University and Howard University in Washington, DC, Ms. Stokes is the daughter of the late Congressman Louis Stokes, a founding member of the International Spy Museum Advisory Board.

This is a fundraising event. All proceeds support the Spy Museum's recovery from the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic.
